THE CHARGES AGAINST MR. CALDWELL. THE MISSING LAWYER AT HIS HOME IN COLLEGE POINT-THE CLAIMS AGAINST HIM TO BE

Mrs. Evevlena F. Lockwood, of Whitestone, L. I., who says that she has suffered the loss of a large amount of money through the conduct of her attorney, Samuel B. Caidwell, the College Point lawyer, who was r-ported missing some days ago, in conversation with a Tribune r-porter yesteriay, told the stery of her wrongs. John A. Lockwood, her husband, she says, died at his home in Whitestone in June, 1881. For fifteen years he had been a partner in the firm of Smith & Lockwood, Custom House brokers, and his estate at his death consisted of two houses in Brooklyn and his Whitestone home. She obtained letters of administration on her husband's estate and employed Mr. Caldwell as her lawyer. Mr. Caldwell, she says, so managed her husband's estate that smail mortgages on the two Brooklyn houses were unnecessarily foreclosed, and that a mortgage on the Whitestone property is now threatened to be foreclosed through his bad management.

and that a morigage on the Whitestone property is now threatened to be foreclosed through his bad management.

In January last Clement & Bloodgood, grocers, of Flushing, L. I., demanded payment of her bill, which had been standing for several months. Mr. Caldwell persuaded her to give a note for three months, secured by a chattel mortgage on the parlor furniture. She has since discovered that she had no right to give the mortgage, as the furniture belonged to her husband's estate and not to herself individually. Shortly before the note became due Mr. Caldwell called upon her and told her he had a check to her order for $500 from the Brooklyn Trust Company, administrator of her father's estate. He told her it would give her considerable trouble to get the money and induced her to give him a power of attorney to collect it. He advanced her $250, promising to give her the balance when he received the money from the company. He took from her a receipt for $500. Since that time she has not seen Mr. Caldwell. She has since learned that Mr. Caldwell. She has general and for the Brooklyn Trust Company $1,385 59, of which $485 59 was paid him for his services in the appointment of the Trust Company as gnardian of her father's estate.

Mrs. Lock wood's present attorney says that in his opinion Mr. Caldwell will be able to settle with ail his creditors within a few days. Mr. Caldwell has been seen at College Point recently.

At Mr. Caidwell's office yesterday it was admitted that he had returned to College Point, and it was said that he would visit his office in this city this morning. The managing clerk said that he had nad an interview with him and he understood that Mrs. Lockwood bad visited him yesterday. He believed that all claims against Mr. Caldwell would be settled without delay.

MR. BARNUM'S TRIUMPH.

MR. BARNUM'S TRIUMPH.

The case of the Elliott children at Barnum's circus was brought to trial vesterday in the Special Sessions Court. P. T. Barnum and all the defendants were in attendance, clustered about Messra. Howe & Hummel, their counsel. The children, in the care of a governess, occupied seats in the ladies' inclosure. Elbridge T. Gerry, president of the prosecuting society, was accompanied by Henry Bergh. The unicycles and bicycles used in the performances complained of were placed in view of Judges Kilbreth. Smith and Ford, who occupied the bench. The defendants pleaded not guilty, whereupon Agent Charles E. Knoll and Supermiendent Jenkins, of the society, deposed to what they had seen at the Elliott performances, dwelling upon the great exertion which, in their opinion, the little ones were obliged to make to control the machines. Counsel for the defendants then asked for a dismissal of the complaint, but as Mr. Barnum desired to sustain his reputation for kindness, he would place witnesses on the stand in reference to the charge of inhumanity. He first called Dr. Lewis A. Sayre, who on taking the stand heard a remark by Mr. Gerry that he had come "at the crack of Mr. Barnum's whap." Thereupon he stated that he was not at the command of any one's whiperack, but was present in the fulfilment of his duty as a citizen, having been subpenned. His testimony was chiefly to the effect that the swaying of the body in operating the bicycle and unicycle developed the muscles, especially of the hips, and was more beneficial to health than all the drugs in the city. Taking one of the machines, he showed that its use required less exertion than was employed in roller-skatine. In further testimony Drs. L. W. Ranney, R. N. Taylor, Marcus Henry and M. R. Henry agreed that there was nothing injurious to the children in their performances, but quite the reverse, P. T. Barnum himself next took the stand. His way of answering questions caused much nerriment.

Justice Kilbreth announced as the decision of hieraric fand much merriment.

Justice Kilbreth announced as the decision of Justice Kilbreth announced as the decision of himself and his colleagues that the facts adduced did not bring the case within the provisions of the statute, and that the defendants were not guilty. When this decision was given Mr. Barnum approached Superintendent Jenkins and said: "I'll give you $200 per week if you'll let me exhibit you about the country as the man who would prevent children from earning their livelihood," to which Mr. Jenkins angrily replied, "Go about your business!"

A COLLEGE WITHOUT A CHARTER.

In the Supreme Court, Special Term, vesterday, judgment was entered against the United States Medical College of this city. The judgment declares that the defendants have not been incorporated as a medical college and that the institution does not possess the powers or franchises of a medical college. The defendants are restrained from acting as an incorporated medical college. The amount of costs which the judgment allows against the defendants is $108.13.

A TRIBUNE reporter last night called on Samuel R. Filly, who acted as the president of the institution, in reference to the judgment. Mr. Filly refused to believe that an absolute decree had been granted. He said that it had been distinctly understood between the counsel of the college, ex-Judge Fithian, and Mr. Ripley, counsel to the Attorney-General, that the hearing on the motion set down for yesterday would be postponed. Mr. Fithian having business in another part of the State. He was positive that it was merely a judgment by default, and that the default would be opened, on Mr. Fithian's return. The amount of the judgment was so small, he continued, that the idea of an absolute judgment being entered was proposterous. Dr. Robert A, Gann, the dean of the college, was too so small, he continued, that the idea of an absolute judgment being entered was preposterous. Dr. Robert A. Gunn, the dean of the college, was too sick to see the reporter. He sent word, however, that the judgment would be fought by the directors of the college as long as there was a court to appeal to. He thought that the reason of the judgment being entered was that Mr. Fithian had been careless and had forgotten the case.

A DARING THEFT IN A JEWELRY STORE.

A DARING THEFT IN A JEWELRY STORE.

A horse and carriage were stolen from in front of the office of Dr. W. A. Little, No. 443 Bedford-ave., Brooklyn, yesterday about 1 p. m. An hour later two men with the horse and carriage drove up in front of the jewelry store of A. McDoagal, No. 223 Columbia-st., about three miles from where the horse and carriage were stolen. One of the men went into the store and asked to look at some seal rings. Two trays of rings, worth about $300, were put on the counter. Diverting the attention of the shopkeeper, the man took up both trays and rushed out of the door. Jumping into the carriage, his confederate whipped up the horse and then started up Union-st., towards Prospect Park. Dr. John Cochran saw from his carriage the robbery, and, calling a policemea, took him into his carriage and started in pursuit. The doctor's horses were driven at a gallop up Union-st. and thence along Fourth-ave, toward Greenwood. Near Seventh-st, the two thieves, seeing that they were closely pursued, left the carriage to make their way across vacant lots to Prospect Park, where they escaped. The stolen horse and carriage were turned over to the police.

POLICE AROUSED AGAINST GAMBLING. POLICE AROUSED AGAINST GAMBLING.
Mayor Edson sent to the Police Commissioners on Tuesday a list of ten alleged gambling houses down town and in the Twenty-uinth Precunct, which had been given to him by a citizen. The Commissioners yesterday passed a resolution directing Supermetendent Walling to ascertain the truth or falsity of the allegations; and if he found it true, wholly or in part, to report to the Board way such violations of the law have been permitted by the police. The Superintendent declined to show the Mayor's communication to a Tribune reporter, and said he did not know by whom the list inclosed had been furnished.

A descent was made by Captain Petty, of the Sixth Precinct, on Tuesday night upon a haunt of Chinese, kept by Dog Hop, at No. 17 Mott-st. Three men were found gaming, the implements (of Chinese style) were seized and the men locked up. In the Tombs Police Court yesterday they were remanded into the custody of Lawyer Spencer for examination, who asserts that the game was not one of chance. The police say that they have received many complaints against the place, the latest having been made by a lawyer on behalf of a Chinaman who had been "skinned" of a few hundred dollars.

SEEKING TO DEFRAUD WORKING-WOMEN. Dispatches from Washington yesterday announced that the Postmaster here had been instructed to deliver no more registered nackages or money-orders to F. Wilson, at No. 203 East Fifteenth-st. The building at that number is occupied as a beer saloon. The proprietor said yesterday that Wilson had had a room there, but left it three days ago. He understood that he was a bell-boy in a hotel. Assistant Postmaster Gayler said Wilson had advertised in a Philadelphia newspaper offering to give steady work to women in finishing patent waterproof aprons at 20 cents apiece, and asking them to send 25 cents for a sample. "He is one of a class of miserable 'skins' of which the Post Office Department has hundreds on record, and has been trying to defraud poor working girls out of 25 cents," said Mr. Gayler.

CONSPIRING TO COMMIT A ROBBERY. CONSPIRING TO COMMIT A ROBBERY.

Inspector Byrnes and Detective Von Gerichten yesterday afternoon arrested Joseph Burns, a well-known thief, at Twenty-third-st. and Broadway, on a bench warrant issue! on February 27 by Judge T. R. Elcock, of Philadelphia. The warrant charges him with conspiring to commit a robbery in that city. Burns is thirty-five years old and lives at No. 215 West Twenty-seventh-st. He is a brother of the noted forger "Pete" Burns, who died in an Italian prison about two years ago while awaiting trial for counterfeiting Italian Government bonds.

BATTLE BETWEEN ELEPHANTS.

BARNUM'S PILOT ATTACKS HIS STALL-MATE AND

DEMOLISHES EVERYTHING NEAR HIM. Elephants as well as opera-managers have their troubles, yet the troubles of the latter, compared with those of the former, are not half as serious, and are much less affecting. Elephants are unlike opera-managers in that they do not lie; but both of them will kick, and that was the case with an aged elehpant in Barnum's circus yesterday. He kicked as though he had signed a contract to do it, and meant to live up to the spirit of that contract. Pilot—for that's the elephant's name—is one of the largest elephants that wears two tusks in the circus.

that contract. Pilot—for that's the elephant's name—is one of the largest clephants that wears two tusks in the circus.

He became a trifle nervous yesterday morning while taking his usual "eye-opener," consisting of twenty-seven gallous of water. In the heat of the moment he raised his right hind leg in haste, and with an accuracy of aim that ought to win for him a Creedmoor medal, he closed the eye of a fellow-elephant who was standing a few yards distant. This unpleasant morning greeting roused the ire of the second elephant, who tetalisted with a blow from his trunk that nearly loosened Pilot's back teeth. Both elephants then closed in on each other and threatened to use each other completely up. Newman, their keeper, heard the high words passing between the two pachyderms, and nastened to the secue of battle. By the time he reached them several large beams supporting the roof had been converted into toothpicks, and the air was full of water-pails, hay end elephants' less. The two elephants and Mr. Newman fought until the keeper was about to congratulate himself on coming out alread, when he was suddenly lifted off his feet by Pilot's large trunk and carelessly deposited in one corner somewhat deranged as to his clothes and minus two teeth.

In the meantime more beams were tumbled down, and the remaining elephants seemed anxious to participate if there was going to be any fun. Newman gathered to gether what was left of himself and attacked Pilot with more strength but with loss teeth, until at length which mere strength but with loss teeth, until at length in stall like a side-wheel steamboot, and made more noise than an orphan asylum. Prior to his stall and chained down fore and aft. During the rest of the day he rocked in his stall has a side-wheel steamboot, and made more noise than an orphan asylum. Prior to his engaling in the steamboot act he knocked a chimney that stood harmicasty back of him and cattered the bricks and morter around in a familiar and unpleasant manner. The chimney is unfit for furth miliar and unpleasant manner. The chimney is unit for furtheruse.

Later in the afternoon an employe of the circus passed by the clophant, wearing a Derby hat. This was too much for Pilot. He raised his trunk and with a graceful sweep that the man will never forget, took the hat from his head, rolled it up in his trunk, making a crushed hat of it in a moment, and then, taking out of his month what remained of the Derby, luried it down on the floor with a slam and a bang that raised another hump on the camel's back and disarranged all the stripes on the zebra's back.

Quiet was restored about nightfull, and Pilot having been still more securery anchored with chains, rings and shackles, went to sleep.

A PENNSYLVANIA GIRL HOLDING THE FORT.

Butler, April 2, Telegram to The Pitteburg Dispatch.
The controversy between the heirs of William Parviance and D. A. Renfrew, Forest Oil Company and others, about thirty neres of oil land at Eaid Rouse, culminated in a riot to-day, in 183% William Purviance obtained a warrant for this land. He soon after sold it to George Sayver and finally the agreement of the sale was transferred to Renfrew. No patent was obtained from the Common wealth. When the land became valuable in that neighborhood several parties claimed it. The most persistent chainant was Miss Dot Purviance, dangher of the late William Purviance. She claimed under her father's warrant. Depositions were taken and a hearing had before the Board of Property at Harrisburg, and on three applications for and an equal number of caveais against granting a patent, which resulted in favor of the Purviances.

granting a patent, which resulted in favor of the Purviances.

Renfrew had made improvements and bu'll a bouse, which he rented to one Nixon, the lease terminating on the 1st—on inst Saturday evening. Nixon moved out and allowed the Purviances to take peaceable possession. This moraing, Renfrew, under advice of counsel, gathered up a force and attempted to dispossess the Furviances, who were hasde with doors locked. Renfrew and his two sons advanced and kicked the door in, when they were met by the Purviance force, armed with axes, hatchets and revolvers, under the leadership of Miss Dot. The Renfrews were driven from the premises. They attempted to raily their forces, offering bystanders $5 for assistance, but no one responded. At this point Sheriff Donaghy came and commanded the peace. Miss Purviance came to Butler and had the Renfrews arrested for forcible entry and detainer. Miss Dot still holds the fort, and deciares she will shoot if another attempt is made. The property is worth $50,000, was leased to the Forest Oil Company by Renfrew and has two producing wells upon it in possession of the company.

They are worthless tramps and the anthorities will not look for them..... Comment has been caused in Roman Catholic circles by the civil marriage of Nicholas Senhatz and Mrs. Meddaugh, members of that church. The wedding had been announced to take place in St. Boniface's Church, but the bridal party found no priest there to marry them, and thinking that Father Hens, who was to perform the ceremony, had concluded not to do so, they went away in a pique and found a Justice of the Peace, who performed the marriage in civil form. It was learned yesterday that the priest had only missed a car, and thus unintentionally disappointed the wedding party.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY. WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.
WHITE PLAINS.—Angelo Cornetti, sentenced to be hanged for the murder of Daniel Cash, a fellow-convict at Sing Sing, and who has appealed repeatedly without success, was taken before the Court of Oyer and Terminer yesterday. After remarks by the prisoner and by his counsel Justice Dykman sentenced Cornetti to be hanged on May 11. Sheriff Harton and his deputies then conducted the condemned man back to his cell without resistance until they reached the foot of the jail-yard stairs, when he began fighting like a tiger, making desperate use of his teeth upon his custodian.

STATEN ISLAND.

STATEN ISLAND. PORT RICHMOND.—The Rev. J. J. Muir, of the Park Baptist Church, has accepted a call to the North Baptist Church in Philadelphia.....The fair in the Baptist church netted $500. LONG ISLAND.

LONG ISLAND.

SMITHTOWN.—Owing to doubt of the legality of the town bonds, the people have voted against raising a sinking fund...... The trent fishing in the Missiquoge River has so far proved very fine. A four-pounder was landed yesterday by Charles Davis.

Long Island City.—During a protracted session on Thesday night, the Aldermen opposing Mayor Petry succeeded in overriding only four out of the thirteen vetoes recently sent in by him. There is a rumor that the Citizens' Committee will begin proceedings in the courts to prevent the bills passed at the meeting being paid. F. H. Wolcott, president of the Queens County Law and Order Society, has addressed an open letter to the society, in which he says that "without doubt its moral influence will exercise a grand conservation over the law-abiding as well as over the law-breaking and corrupt official elements now controlling our whole county." The letter has attracted a great deal of attention and is regarded as a severe condemnation of the county officials.

EL HARAM AT MECCA.

From The London Globe.

The central point of interest in Mecca to the pilertims whose visit thither constitutes a sort of Easter holiday after the fast, is El Haram, the sanctoary. This forms a sort of quadrangle 200 yards long and 250 wide, inclosed by lofty walls, on the inside of which are cloisters arranged in several galleries and surmounted by seven minurels. From the cloisters are paths leading to the centre of the square, in which stands the celebrated Knaba. This is a square edince with sides of only thirty-eight feet in length and forty feet in height, and surrounded with a railing. It is hung with silk drapery having a fringe embredered with gold, and insertbed with the names of all the successive Cellphs in order. But the hangings are taken down every year and cut up for distribution among the piligrims, who keep the sacrap as relies and mencentoes of their visit. Inside the sacrap holiding are four small chapters, or oratories, for votaries, belonging to the four Islamite seets, and under one of them is the well of boly water called Zem Zem, and a block of marble devouily believed to be the foot of Abraham. The connection of this patriarch with the temple is, however, a comparatively recent event in its nistory. For at a much earlier period the spot on which it stands was chosen by Adam on his cercat from Paradic as the most suitable place for pitching his tent and offering up his trayer. The famous "black stone," at the outside of the temple, which is so eagerly venerated by the pitcrims, is nothing less than the head of the angel, who, being in charge of Adam and Kee, did not restrain them from tasting the forbidden fruit. He was accordingly transformed, as a punishment, into the shape and substance of a black pitce of stone, and will not rethem from tasting the forbidden fruit. He was ac-cordingly transformed, as a ponishment, into the shape and substance of a black pitche of stone, and will not re-sume his original form until the Day of Judgment.
